Liverpool PCT broke procedure in handing GP surgeries to private firm

Health campaigners have accused Liverpool PCT of failing to consult the public and demanded the decision to transfer surgeries to SSP Health, a private company owned by two Wigan GPs, be reversed.

"There will certainly be changes to the service, but the public were never consulted," says Keep Our NHS Public campaigner Sam Semoff, a patient at one of the affected practices. "The PCT broke its own procedure. They must reverse the decision and begin the process again, consulting the public before inviting any tenders."

Two weeks ago, the Liverpool Echo reported that 20 GP surgeries in Liverpool and Sefton would be transferred to SSP Health. Ten of these are Liverpool practices whose staff, including GPs, are directly employed by Liverpool Community Health, an NHS Trust.

The Office of Fair Trading has invited written submissions by Wednesday 5 December on whether the transfer, now said to involve 22 surgeries, may contravene the Enterprise Act 2002.

An investigation by Keep Our NHS Public found that a principal shareholder in the Wigan firm is also a director of 20 active companies including property and private medicine. The campaign also discovered a link to Capita, suggesting that SSP Health's takeover of surgeries may strengthen Capita's influence on what health services are commissioned in future.

Responding to a Freedom of Information request in Sept 2011, Liverpool PCT told Semoff that there would be no consultation with the public as "as there is no material change specified in the tender for the services currently provided."

However, in January this year, the tender was aborted by the PCT and the specifications were changed so that work previously carried out by Practice Nurses would be done by GPs. This material change to the service required public consultation and also affected the financial basis of the tender.

Liverpool Community Health withdrew from bidding in June and told the Liverpool Daily Post at the time that removing practice nurses "means the quality of care to patients would diminish” and the moves were simply “unsafe”.

6. On 13 September 2011 Liverpool PCT wrote to Sam Semoff in response to a Freedom of Information request. Their letter, available on request, includes answers (italicised) on patients' rights and consultation:

6) Please supply all evidence, which LPCT considered before the decision to invite bids, that the tendering process for PCTMS practices would protect and promote the right of patients to make choices with respect to treatment.

No specific evidence was considered due to no change to patient's rights in the tender process.

7) What consultation with patients at PCTMS practices concerning possible tendering was undertaken before the decision to invite expressions of interest from health care providers?

None as there is no material change specified in the tender for the services currently provided.

8) What requirements are there to consult patients of the PCTMS practices during the tendering process? What plans do LPCT have to hold such consultations for patients of each practice?

There are no requirements as there is no material change specified in the tender for the services currently provided. There are no plans to hold such consultations.

7. The website www.duedil.com which compiles information from Companies House, shows that SSP Health Ltd is Company No. 06359596, with two shareholders, the husband and wife team of Wigan GPs Shikha Pitalia (51%) and Sanjay Pitalia (49%). Sanjay Pitalia is director of 25 companies, of which 20 are trading, including Pall Mall Medical and several property companies.
